Base Ball.

The Hondo base ball team has put in a rather busy week, and has reason to be very well satisfied with the results of the games.

Wednesday the team went over to Sabinal for a game with their strongest rivals for the championship of West Texas. All the Sabinal team were "at home," and entertained the Hondo team in a very strenuous manner, annexing the game by a score of 8 to 3.

Thursday the Devine team came over for a game, and as a result Hondo gained in the percentage column. It was an off day with the sand boys, and they dropped the game to the Hondo aggregation by the one-sided score of 10 to 0.

Friday the Hondo team went to Castroville for a game with the team of that town. As the game was scheduled for the afternoon the result was not obtainable for this week's paper.

Next Tuesday, August 30, the last game scheduled on the local diamond will be pulled off. Sabinal will be here, and all lovers of our national game should make it a point to be present as it will undoubtedly be the hardest fought battle of the season. Go out and root for your home team. It is very probable Sabinal rooters will be here in force.

Methodist Church.

Our subject next Sunday at 11 a.m. will be "Life's Golden Hours"; at 8 p.m. "A Heart at Flood-Tide".

Next Tuesday at 5 p.m. Brother Webb will hold our Fourth Quarterly Conference. It is very important that all the members be present—Stewards, Trustees, Superintendents of Sunday School and Chairmen of Social Service and Evangelistic Committees. These Chairmen and the Trustees are expected to make reports to the Conference; also the Woman's Missionary Society.

Let me, again, insist on a full attendance.

The Baptists.

Sunday morning at 11:00 Pastor Allen will preach and Miss Tommie Smith will sing.

Our evening service will be had on the lawn at 8:15.

Appreciation.

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the Hondo Fire Company and to the citizens in general for their prompt response and aid rendered in extinguishing the fire that started in my gin Tuesday afternoon. I wish to assure each and every one that their kindness will ever be held in grateful remembrance by

Sincerely yours,

Mrs. J. W. HOLLOWAY.

Now is the accepted time to join the Home Relief Association. 5-2t

Emil Schmidt.

Emil Schmidt was born in Muelhausen, Alsace, October 6th, 1843. He died at Lacoste, Texas, August 21st, 1921, at 10 o'clock p.m., having attained an age of 77 years, 10 months and 15 days. Mr. Schmidt came to this country with his parents early in 1846, when only a little over 2 years old; his parents came to Castro's Colony on the Medina River, where young Emil had spent most of his boyhood days until the Civil War broke out, when he enlisted in the U. S. Army Dec. 28th, 1863. He received his discharge from the Army October 31st, 1865.

After the civil war he married Miss Magdalena Soitner in the Catholic church in Castroville, Texas. Their union was not blessed with children and Mrs. Schmidt preceded her husband into the land of the departed March 31st, 1916. For over 30 years Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt had made their home in Bexar County, near Idlewild, where he was engaged in cattle raising. He sold his lands to the Irrigation Company and moved to Lacoste, where he resided up to the time of his death.

He is survived by three brothers, Louis Schmidt of Lacoste, Peter Schmidt of Biry, and Joseph Schmidt of Devine, and by seven sisters, namely, Mrs. Gustave Zimmerman of San Antonio, Mrs. Katherine Iltis, Mrs. Louisa Soitner, Mrs. Anton Bohl, Mrs. Michael Franger, of Lacoste, Mrs. Jacob Biry of Biry, and Mrs. Emil Zimmerman of Castroville. One sister, Mrs. Andrew Carle, having predeceased him in death.

Mr. Schmidt was truly one of those sturdy pioneers who helped with much hardship and endurance to make out of a once wild and hostile country a peaceable and civilized country. One more of the venerable company has been assembled with the fathers, and we have but the memory of his kindness and his many deeds of charity.

He always took an active part in all public improvements, and many of our local enterprises owe their existence to his help and encouragement.

Funeral services were conducted from St. Mary's Church and entombment was made on the family burial lot in St. Mary's Cemetery at 4 o'clock p.m. Monday, August 22nd. Rev. Jno. Heinzelmeir performed the last sad rites of the Catholic Church. Active pall-bearers were nephews of the deceased: Martin Zimmerman, Ed. Schmidt, Louis Biry, Peter Carle, Frank Bohl, Henry Franger. Honorary pall-bearers were: Joe Mehr, Joe Mann, J. J. Droitcourt, August Kempf, Hubert Zuercher and Harry Vonfie. The largest funeral procession ever had at Lacoste followed his earthly remains to their last resting place. May he rest in peace.—L. B., Lacoste Ledger.

Merry Maids.

The Merry Maids entertained last Friday evening with a chicken fry and swimming party at Castroville. The girls and invited guests left town about six o'clock, and after an exhilarating swim in the Medina, a supper of fried chicken, fruit salad, ambrosia, iced tea and cake was served.

The crowd was a merry one, and many comical jokes, stories and songs helped to pass away the two feet hours under the "light of the moon." The boys voted the picnic one of the "best ever," and are hoping that another will be given in the near future.

Misses Gladys and Lucile Newton were delightful hostesses to the members of the Merry Maids Club and escorts Tuesday evening. Progressive games and musical selections were enjoyed throughout the evening. Mr. Bill Windrow took first place in order of the games after quite a bit of exciting competition.

Refreshments of peach ice cream and angel food squares were served at a late hour.

The invited guests were: Miss Tommie Smith, Helen Lacy, Gladys Woolls, Caro Fusselman, Alice Cook, Nell Wilson, Nettie Mae Newton, Nettie Fly, Alice Newton, Kate Henderson; Messrs. Martin Hudspeth, Wallace Heath, Charles Wilson, Bill Windrow, Garland Martin, Earl Lacy, Sterling Fly, Will Ernest Newton, Kyle Bradley, Selby Woolls, Sydney Fly, Mrs. Jessie Newton and Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Fly.

PRESS REPORTER.

Either rain is not essential to the growing of corn or this drought we are all complaining of is only imaginary. Lee Green planted a patch of corn in June—just a small roasting-ear patch. He says the corn never had a drop of rain, nevertheless it yielded a fair crop. What other section of Texas can equal this? When crops fail in Medina county the other parts of the state have our commiseration. Market failures, and not crop failures, is what causes distress to our farming population.

August Hornung returned Thursday from a brief vacation spent with his children in San Antonio and Austin. He says one has to visit other places to appreciate what a really desirable place Hondo is as a place of residence. He says he saw no crops on his trip to equal those right here in Medina country. We will not state positively, but we have heard it hinted, that he made application to the superintendent of one of the eleemosynary institutions in Austin for admission but was promptly turned down, the superintendent telling him there were more promising subjects for admission to his institution down at the state capital than he was, and we believe a great majority of the people of Texas will side with the superintendent.

He also said it was the purpose to conduct the Baptist summer school at the Alta Frio camp ground another year.

New York City.

My dear Mr. Edison:

Under a contract between yourself and Thomas A. Edison, Inc., dated the 24th of April, 1919, it is provided, in effect, that the royalties payable to you on various selections, which you have recorded for us, shall continue, only so long as you do not make phonographic recordings of such selections for anyone else.

I shall be very glad to give you permission to record these selections for others, without the loss of royalties under the aforesaid agreement. This will give you the opportunity to record your "Prelude in C Sharp Minor" and other important works, which you have already recorded for us.

Yours very truly,

Thomas A. Edison

READ Mr. Edison's letter to Rachmaninoff, the famous Russian pianist. In reality, it is an invitation to talking-machine manufacturers to record Rachmaninoff in the selections that he has recorded for the New Edison.

We fear that they will not dare this deadly parallel—but, since Rachmaninoff has recorded other selections for talking-machines, you can draw your own parallels. Simply come here and

Hear Rachmaninoff on the NEW EDISON

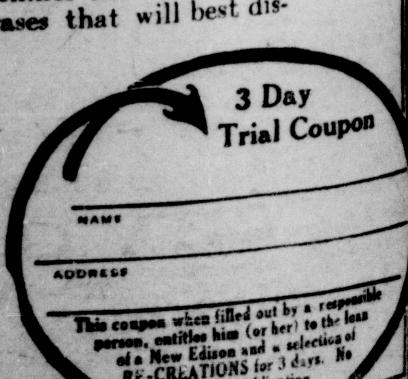

You will hear Rachmaninoff exactly as he plays. Then listen to him as he sounds on a talking-machine.

The New Edison is so different from all talking-machines that Mr. Edison has offered $2 cash prizes, totaling $10,000, for phrases that will best distinguish the New Edison from talking-machines. Ask for folder, giving full particulars.

If you do not own a New Edison, fill out and mail, or bring, the coupon and we will loan you an instrument on three days free trial. Having a New Edison will give you ideas for phrases to submit in the contest. Act quickly—contest closes September 2nd.

It was almost noon when Gardiner appeared on the scene. "You don't hurt yourself in the mornin'," was Riles' greeting.

"Don't need to," he answered cheerfully. "Besides, I'd a long session after I left you last night. No, no particulars at present. I told you you had spotted your hands for that kind of work. How d'ye like this air? Isn't that something worth breathing?"

"Good enough," said Riles, "but I didn't come out here for air."

"No, you came for land. I'm surprised you're not out bouncing over

"I Won't Hold You to Anything You Said Last Night, Riles."

the prairie in a buckboard long before this."

Riles shot a quick glance at Gardiner. But he was puffing a cigar and drinking in the warm sunshine with obvious satisfaction.

"So I might've been, but I thought we kind of made a date last night, didn't we?"

"Did we? Oh, yes; now I remember.

But I thought perhaps you'd feel different about it in the morning. A man generally does. I won't hold you to anything you said last night, Riles."

Riles could not recall that he had said anything that committed him in any way, but Gardiner's tone implied that plainly enough.

"I ain't changed my mind," he said, "but I don't know I said anything holdin', did I? I thought we was goin' to drive out to your place t' day an' talk things over."

"Well, I just didn't want you to lose any time over me if you thought things wouldn't work out," said Gardiner. "It takes more nerve, you know, than heating potatoes. But you're welcome to the hospitality of the ranch, in any case. I came in on horseback, so we'll get a team at one of the stables and drive out."

In a short time they were on their way. The road skirted the river, threading its way through the narrow belt of cotton woods and evergreens that found footing in the moist soil of the valley.

"It's all right, Riles," Gardiner was saying. "If you're prepared to stay with the deal we can pull it through—no doubt about that. That is, if Harris will sell his farm and come out here with the cash in his jeans. If he won't do that, you better get busy on your homestead proposition right away."

"He'll do it all right, if he sees somethin' worth while. But Harris's no spring chicken, an' you'll have to show him somethin' t' his likin' before he loosens up."

"I don't care whether he loosens up or not," said Gardiner. "All I care is that he brings the money, and brings it in bills. No checks, mind you. Get him out here with the cash on him, and I'll do the loosening up, if it comes to that."

Riles was somewhat alarmed at the sinister turn of the conversation. He had no compunction about getting the better of his old neighbor, the man who had entrusted him with the discharge of their joint mission, but he had considerable respect for the force, if not the principle, of the law.

"You don't mean that you'd do anythin'—anythin' that wasn't right?" he said. "I wouldn't want t' get mixed up in no scrape, y' know."

"You mean that you think more of your skin than you do or Harris's coin. Well, there's no accounting for tastes. But as for doing anything wrong—you ought to know me better than that. It will all be clean and above board, and no violence if it can be helped, but if Harris is unfortunate nobody's to blame for that. Of course, if you're afraid to take a sportsman's chance for one-half of $40,000, call the deal off. I've got lots of other fish to fry."

"You don't understand," said Riles. "I ain't a scared, but I don't want t' do nothin' that'll get us into trouble. Harris is an old neighbor o' mine, an'—"

"I understand perfectly. You wouldn't mind a piece of Harris' money served on a platter and wrapped in tissue paper, but you want somebody else to take the chances. Now, there won't be any chances to speak of, but what there are you take your share. If that's a bargain it's a bargain, and if it isn't we'll talk about the weather. What d'you say?"

"It's a bargain," said Riles, "provided your plan'll work out."

"It's got to work out. It's like going up in a balloon—if it doesn't work out it's all off with the engineer. You got to take the chance, Hiram, and then make good on the chance."

Riles chewed vigorously at his tobacco. "Explain how you're goin' to pull it off," he said, "an' then I'll tell you yes or no."

"Not on your life," said Gardiner. "I don't show my hand until I know who's sitting across."

There was silence for one-half a mile, while Riles turned the matter over in his mind. He was naturally a coward, but he was equally a money-grabber, and it was one instinct against the other. Avarice won it, and at length he extended his hand to Gardiner. "I'm in on anythin' you're in on," he said.

"That sounds like it," said Gardiner, with enthusiasm. "Now the whole thing's simple as A B C, and not half as dangerous as running a traction engine or breaking a broncho. It all rests on getting him out here with the money, and that's where you come in. I don't mind telling you if it wasn't for the help you can give there I'd handle the job myself, and save dividing the proceeds."

"Yes, that's the point, all right," said Riles, somewhat dubiously. "How're we goin' to get him out here with all that money?"

"Think, Riles," said Gardiner, puffing complacently at a fresh cigar. "Think hard."

Riles wrinkled his forehead and spat copiously at the front hub, but the inspiration would not come. "I give it up," he said at last. "You'll have t' plan it, an' I'll carry it out."

"That's what comes of hard work, Hiram; you lose all your imagination right now you haven't any more imagination than a cabbage. Now, I could suggest a dozen schemes to suit the purpose if I had to, but one will do. Suppose this:

"These mountains up here are full of coal—more coal than can be burnt in a million years. It's a bad road in, but once you get there you'll see it lying in seams, 10, 15, 20 feet thick, and stretching right through the rocks as far as you will like to follow it. That coal's going to make a bunch of millionaires some day, but not until you can get at it with something bigger than a cayuse. But railroads come fast in this country, and there's no saying how soon a man might cash in if he invested just now."

"You ain't goin' t' wait till a railroad comes, are you? We'll like enough be dead by that time."

"Hiram, I told you you had no imagination. Wait a moment. Now, suppose that some strange eccentric chap owns one of these coal limits. He lives up in the mountains, a kind of hermit, but we fall in with him and offer him $40,000 for his limit, worth, say, $500,000, or more if you feel like it. He says, 'All right, but mind I want the money in bills, and you'll have to bring it out to me here.' Now can you think of anything?"

"Harris don't know nothin' about coal," protested Riles. "He wouldn't bite at anythin' like that."

"Your faith has been neglected as well as your imagination. You've got to paint it to him so's to get him interested. That's all. Our business is to get Harris, with the money in his wallet, started up into those mountains. It's mighty lonely up there, with timber wolves, grizzly bears, precipices, snow slides, and trails that lead to nowhere, and if Harris is unfortunate—well, he's unfortunate."

The plan gradually penetrated Riles' slow-working mind. At first it numbed him a little, and his face was a strange color as he turned to his companion and said, in a low voice, "Ain't it risky? What if the police catch on?"

"They won't. They're all right for cleaning up a rough house, but don't cut any figure in fine art work like we'll put over. I tell you, Riles, it's absolutely safe. The main thing is to see that he has the money in bills; anything else would be risky and lead to trouble. Then this fellow that's supposed to own the mine must be kept in the background. We—"

"He'll do it all right, if he sees somethin' worth while. But Harris's no spring chicken, an' you'll have to show him somethin' t' his likin' before he loosens up."

"I don't care whether he loosens up or not," said Gardiner. "All I care is that he brings the money, and brings it in bills. No checks, mind you. Get him out here with the cash on him, and I'll do the loosening up, if it comes to that."

Riles was somewhat alarmed at the thing ever does leak out, suspicion will be directed toward some mysterious mine owner, and the police will be weaving out shoe leather hunting the cracks in the foot hills while you and I are taking in the sights of Honolulu or South America. We'll quietly make an appointment for Harris to meet the mine owner somewhere up in the hills. We'll direct him where to go, and leave it at that. Of course, we won't go with him; we'll have other business about that."

Riles looked at Gardiner with frank admiration. It seemed so simple now, and in his growing enthusiasm he felt that he would have little difficulty in persuading Harris to raise all the cash possible and bring it with him. And it seemed so safe. As Gardiner said, the mountains were full of danger, and if something should happen to Harris—well, he would be unfortunate; but lots of other people had been unfortunate too.

Gardiner turned his team down a side road, forded the river, climbed a steep, slippery bank, and drew up beside a cluster of ranch buildings sheltered with cotton woods and spruces. As the team, in their long, steady trot, swung up beside the stables, an alert young fellow came quickly out and hustled himself with the unhitching.

"Guess you ought to know our visitor, Jim, shouldn't you?" said Gardiner. "Another Manitoban chasing the free land."

Gardiner at once recognized Riles and extended his hand. "Well, Mr. Riles, we weren't looking for you here, although I suppose I shouldn't be surprised, for there was some talk of your coming west before I left Plainville. How's everybody? Harris is well, I hope?"

"Guess they're well enough, but gettin' kind of scattered for a family group. Beulah lit out when you did—but I guess I can't give you no information about that."

The smile did not depart from Travers' face, but if Riles had known him as well as he should he would have seen the sudden smoldering light in the eye. But the young man answered quietly, "I saw Beulah the day I left Plainville, and I understood she was going west on a visit. She isn't back yet."

"Innocent, ain't chub?" said Riles, in a manner intended to be playful. "It's all right; I don't blame you. Beulah's a good girl if a bit highfalutin, an' few years' roughin' it on the homestead'll take that out of her."

But Jim had dropped the harness and stood squarely facing Riles. The smile still lingered on his lips, but even the heavy-witted farmer saw that he had been playing with fire. Riles was much the larger man of the two, but he was no one to court combat unless the odds were overwhelmingly in his favor. He carried a scar across his eye as a constant reminder of his folly in having once before invited trouble from a younger man.

"What do you mean?" demanded Travers. "Put it in English."

But Gardiner interposed. "Don't be too sensitive, Jim," he said. "Riles has forgotten his parlor manners, but he doesn't mean any harm. You weren't instigating anything, were you, Hiram?"

"Course not," said Riles, glad of an opportunity to get out of the difficulty without a direct apology. "No offense intended. Jim, Beulah's all right, an'

letter but Gardiner insisted it must be done by him. Much of the afternoon was spent in the struggle, and Gardiner's fertile imagination had to be appealed to at several critical points. But at last the letter was completed. It ran as follows:

"John Harris esq

"str I take up my pen to let you no that am all well hoppin this will find you the same well this is a grate contrys

"your obedint servt
"HIRAM RILES."

Gardiner read the letter carefully, suppressing his amusement over Riles' wrestlings with the language, and finally gave his approval.

"Now, you must make a copy of it," he said. "It's only business to have a copy. That was a fine touch of yours about going back to sell your own farm. I believe you have some imagination after all, if it only had a chance to sprout."

Riles protested about the labor of making a copy, but Gardiner insisted, and at last the work was completed. The sound of galloping hoofs was heard outside, and a cowboy from a neighboring ranch called at the door to ask if there was anything wanted from town. "Here's your chance to mail your letter," Gardiner called to Riles with unnecessary loudness. "Mr. Riles dropped in here to write a letter," he explained to the rider.

Having with much difficulty folded his epistle until it could be crumpled into an envelope, Riles sealed, stamped, and addressed it, and a moment later the dust was rising down the trail as the cowboy bore the fatal missive to town. The die was cast; the match had been set to the tinder, and the fire must now burn through to a finish, let it scorch whom it would.

Gardiner took up the copy, folded it carefully, and put it in his pocket book. "Now, Mr. Riles," he said, "we're in for this thing, and there's no backing out. At least you're in for it. You have sent a letter, in your handwriting, such as it is, to Harris, and I have a copy of it in your handwriting, in my pocket. If this thing ever gets out these letters will make good evidence."

EDITORIALS BY THE EDITOR.

THE LOCAL WEATHER PROPHET. The prophet was perched on the edge of the curb. Observing the dust on the street; His face wore a look of prophetic concern.

As he talked of the drought and the heat,

"The country is ruined," he solemnly drawled,

As he shifted his quid in his mouth, "It's hotter by half, and it's drier by far."

"Than it ever has been in the South.

"The grain will be scorched till it withers away."

"The corn will be burned on the stalk;"

"There'll be not enough fruit in this part of the state."

"To furnish desert for a hawk."

"The driest I've seen it since '74."

"When everything parched on the ground;"

"Burned to a cinder, not moisture enough

"To dampen the tongue of a hound!"

"My advice to the farmer is: Get what you can."

"And sell off your stock and your land;"

"Then go where there is rainfall enough for a crop,

"You can't make a living on sand!"

Then came a soaker the very next day. The water descended in sheets; The prophet, now perched on a counter inside, Locked out at the mud in the streets.

"The country is ruined," he drawled with a sigh,

"Potatoes will rot in the soil;"

"The wettest I've seen it since '76."

"When all of our gardens were drowned;"

"The hay stood in water and couldn't be mowed,

"So we left it to spoil on the ground."

"My advice to the farmer is: 'Sell off your land,'

"Don't wait till you're caught in a flood,"

"Then go where the sun shines a part of the year,

"You can't make a living on mud!"

THE TEXAS POULTRY WORLD is a new weekly publication devoted to the poultry industry and farm life. It is published at Hico and is edited by A. Garland Adair. The editor has laid out for himself a man-sized job to fill the columns of a weekly paper with new, live matter every week about chickens or the feathered variety, but he starts out like he was going to be able to come up to the scratch.

IT WAS WITH FEELINGS OF DEEP SADNESS THAT WE LEARNED OF THE DEATH AT DEL RIO LAST WEEK OF A. GORDON FRENCH, A VETERAN NEWSPAPER MAN OF THAT CITY. WE KNEW THE DECEASED CHIEFLY THROUGH HIS NEWSPAPER WORK OF HIS LATER YEARS, AND ADMIRED THE LOFTY SPIRIT AND HIGH IDEALS THAT GOVERNED HIS PEN. THE WORLD IS POORER, IN THOSE THINGS THAT MAKE LIFE REALLY WORTHWHILE, FOR HIS PASSING.

BY SOME STRANGE OVERSIGHT WE SAID IN AN EDITORIAL LAST WEEK THAT "THE RURAL POPULATION OF THE UNITED STATES IN 1910 WAS 2,958,438." AND WE BASED THE ENTIRE STATEMENT ON THAT ERONEOUS PRESUMPTION, AND THEREBY SPOILED THE SENSE OF THE WHOLE PARAGRAPH. WE SHOULD HAVE USED THE TERM "TEXAS" INSTEAD OF "UNITED STATES." WE DO NOT KNOW HOW WE CAME TO TAKE A PART FOR THE WHOLE IN THIS WAY, UNLESS IT IS BECAUSE TEXAS IS THE "BIGGEST" PART OF THE UNITED STATES, AND WE JUST COULDN'T HELP IT.

THOSE WHO ARE WATCHING THE ECONOMIC AND INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN EUROPE ARE PRETTY SURE THAT THERE IS NOW MORE REAL WORK AND LESS TALKING GOING ON IN GERMANY THAN ANYWHERE ELSE. FOR A TIME THE GERMANS SEEMED COMPLETELY DISORGANIZED BY THEIR DEFEAT, AND THERE WERE PLENTY OF PEOPLE WHO PREDICTED THAT THEY WERE GOING STEADILY DOWNHILL INTO ANARCHY. THAT IS SO NO LONGER.

THE PEOPLE ARE HARD AT WORK AGAIN, AND THE RECONSTRUCTION OF BUSINESS GOES FORWARD FASTER THERE THAN IN ENGLAND OR ITALY OR FRANCE. THEY HAVE EVEN TURNED THE LOW VALUE OF THE MARK INTO A HELP, OR IT ACTS LIKE A PROTECTIVE WALL TO KEEP OUT IMPORTS AND TO STIMULATE PRODUCTION AT HOME. WHEN THE SPANISH RAILWAYS WANTED TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY LOCOMOTIVES, THE GERMAN BUILDERS MADE A BID FAR BELOW THE BIDS OF THE BRITISH AND THE AMERICANS, AND MUCH MORE SATISFACTORY IN THE MATTER OF QUICK DELIVERY THAN THE OFFER OF THE BELGIANS, WHO ALONE COULD COMPETE WITH THEM IN PRICE. —YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Fletcherized Farm Facts.

BY FLETCHER DAVIS

Livestock need plenty of shade in hot weather. Do not expect them to thrive unless their comfort has been provided for.

Plenty of clean fresh water within reach of the livestock at all times is very essential to their comfort and well being during hot weather.

If the hens quit laying during the warm weather it may be due not alone to molting. The absence of green feed may have something to do with it. Try feeding them some sprouted oats.

For a small flock of hens, a few oats in the bottom of a tub, sprinkled well with water until thoroughly moist, covered with wet tow sack, and left in a cool shady place until well sprouted, will provide a good feed and take the place of the green picking found by them when on a good fresh open range.

Prepare now to sow a patch of small grain convenient for the pigs and poultry to graze on this fall and winter.

It will soon be time to plant fall gardens. Nothing is more conducive to the health and comfort of the family than plenty of fresh wholesome vegetables.

Every fall and winter, Texas imports large quantities of ruta-bagas from Canada. And yet Texas could produce enough turnips to feed the world. Why won't we produce enough for ourselves?

It is said that the cause of the pelagra, that disease of malnutrition that is plaguing this country, is due to too much salt pork, corn bread, and molasses and not enough protein food in our rations. The legumes are a source of protein and a preventive, therefore, of pelagra. Moral: save all the dry beans and peas you can for family use.

The heat of the summer sun will warp and crack the wood work and scale the paint from the iron-work of farm implements and machinery when left exposed to its rays. When no longer in use in the field, it is economy to store the implements in the shade where they will be exposed to neither sun nor rain.

Weather stain is responsible for heavy loss to the cotton farmers of the South every year. There is an oversupply of low grade and damaged cotton held over from previous years. Therefore, it is very important that the present crop be gathered early, picked and ginned clean, and kept in a dry place until sold.

The cotton market appears to be maintaining a firm, steady tone. A radical drop can scarcely be feared in face of the short crop and in view of improving world conditions. But on the other hand, buyers can not be reasonably expected to buy the market held over from previous years. Hurrying to sell always has a tendency to lower the price, and vice versa.

By the same token, a falling market always creates a stampede to unload before the market hits bottom. Understanding the psychological effect falling markets have on the farmers, buyers sometimes take advantage of it and start a "deflation" movement just to stimulate the turning loose of the product in question. If all farmers could quit selling the moment prices begin to fall below profitable levels, the slump would be stopped, prices would stabilize themselves and the complaint that farm products do not bring cost of production would be heard no more.

Well, if we could tell you how "all farmers" could stop selling when price levels were unsatisfactory the secret would be worth too much to be giving it away here. The farmers would give us a fortune for the secret and the speculative world would probably "raise 'em several points" to keep us from divulging it. But the farmer who is producing something out on his own individual farm of which he can not control the selling to the extent of holding until he can get cost of production and a profit—based on a reasonable business-like cost—should change his methods of farming.

In the meantime, save the crops, provide a few meat hogs for the family meat and lard supply, plant a fall garden—including a big turnip patch—and plant a patch of small grain, and maybe so some Dwarf Essex rape, for a fall and winter pasture for the pigs and the poultry. And don't forget to provide plenty of cool, fresh water and lots of shade for your livestock these hot summer days.

Muskogee Woman Relieved of 15 Years Trouble By Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac has relieved me of a case of stomach trouble that made my life miserable for fifteen or twenty years," said Mrs. Margaret Grider, 906 Egin Ave., Muskogee, Okla.

"Nothing agreed with me, and the gas which formed on my stomach bloated me up so that I suffered agony for hours. There was a pressure around my heart that almost took my breath away. I was so nervous and restless any unusual noise almost drove me distracted and I scarcely ever got a good night's sleep. I was so weak and run down I could not do anything hardly, but would just move about the house like I was half dead. I used every medicine I ever heard tell of, but nothing did me any good and I had almost given up hope of ever getting well.

"But after I got Tanlac I began to mend from the very start. My appetite became ravenous and I began to eat things I hadn't dared touch in a long time. I have just finished my sixth bottle and I haven't felt better in years. I sleep like a child, wake up refreshed and have strength to do my housework with ease. I always keep Tanlac on hand to take when I get to feeling a little bad, and it never fails to put me on the right road again. Tanlac is just grand."

Tanlac is sold in Hondo by W. H. Windrow; in Castroville by Joseph Courand & Co.; and in Dunlap by Louis A. Haby; and by all leading druggists.

To Our Subscribers.

During the trying years of war-time and drouth, we have not bothered you with opportunities to pay up your subscriptions. As a consequence, the years have glided by unnoticed and several have allowed themselves to get behind with their payments. This is the harvest season of the year, and the time to pay up accounts. Then, too, we are contemplating some much needed improvements in our printing plant. A prompt payment of all that is due on our subscriptions would enable us to make these improvements without any serious financial stringency. Will you not come to our assistance by sitting down at once and mailing a check for one or more year's subscription to us. Thereby you will help us materially and save the labor and expense of our later sending a statement to you. If convenient drop into the office in person and pay to some representative of the paper.

Of course, we know you mean to settle this account when convenient, but if you will make it convenient to do so at once it will greatly oblige us.

Very truly yours to serve,

FLETCHER DAVIS,
Editor.

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 75c per bottle.

True Economy

Could you do this?

We don't think so—with

The DELTOR

This is one reason why the addition of the Deltor subtracts the entire price from the Butterick Pattern.

Your layout is specially worked out for your size and for the width in which your material comes.

With the Deltor layouts you lay your pattern over your material as fast as you can pin it in place. Our highly trained experts spent hours on the task.

What is your time worth?

You pay your cleaning woman fifty cents an hour. Your time is worth more than that. More than the price of the pattern.

So the Butterick Pattern with the Deltor costs less than nothing.

One Quality-One Price

Firestone

Again Reduces Price

Extra Size 30x3½ $16.65

Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid, May 2. Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3½ size, made this possible.

Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3½ tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for our Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Cords That Don't Blow Out

You feel secure on Firestone Cords. Because Firestone Cords don't blow out. Your repair man will tell you he hasn't seen a blowout this past year—10,000, 15,000 and 20,000 miles, and the tires still going strong. See your Firestone dealer today. Name below.

Firestone Cord Tires are being sold at lowest prices in cord tire history: 30x3½—$21.50 32x4—$46.30 34x4½—$54.90

The Distinction.

Oh, yes, the cook's very religious, but her cooking's diabolical.

Logical.
The second doctor the Smiths had was exactly like the first one.

The ex-buck found the menu card at the fashionable restaurant almost as baffling as some he'd perused in France. Finally he summoned waiter.

"Where are pork and beans or here?" he asked.
The waiter indicated.

DRAWBACKS OF PUBLIC LIFE

Postmaster's Experience Would Convince Anyone That It Was by No Means a Private Snap.

"No matter what the fellers think that haven't got it, a public office hasn't by no means a private snap," philosophically said the postmaster at Toad Rock, Ark. "Every little while something comes up to pester the official, no difference how keeरful and consecutive he is about doing his duty. Frinstance, day before yesterday a gent that subscribes for a Little Rock daily that comes to his office, whirled in and took a couple of shots at me. He b'enz he wanted his paper before I was through reading it.

"A while back one of them durned Northerners, that think themselves so devilish smart, wrt a postal card to a lady yur, saying that the full details of that there scandal were as follows, and then put the rest of it in Latin or some such fool language. And about six weeks ago an impatient cuss that wanted his mail came in through the side of the office with an ax, when he knew thundering well that I was off on a turkey hunt and would be back in three or four days. Aw, well, every rose has its thorn, and I reckon there bain't no—yaw-w-w-wn!—help for it."—Judge.

SEVERE SHOCK FOR JIMMIE

Remark Probably Made Him Realize That the "Only Girl" Was Not So Very Different.

He had taken her to the big football game of the season. She was the most wonderful being in the world, of course—such good sense, so understanding. He had taken many girls to games in his college days, but this time it was different. She was not only a pal, she was the interesting mystery, and she had promised to marry him. They were seeing their first game together.

Came an exciting two minutes when the Navy had but a yard to gain. He didn't breathe till it was all over, then shaking her arm, he shouted hoarsely: "Wasn't it great? Did you ever see such defense?"

Glowingly and understandingly she replied:

"Jimmie, look at that love of a hat on the Army side; isn't she a stylish thing?"—New York Sun.

Too Good a Chance to Lose.

The French chancellor, Henri Francois d'Aguesseau, to whom his native country owes much for his enduring improvements in its legal conditions, never would come to a decision without at first minutely examining and questioning everything bearing upon the matter. His son, who was also a lawyer, was exactly the opposite, and moreover, paid no attention to his father's excellent example.

One day, during a heated argument between the two, the young man, who expected to give his father a sharp thrust, said sarcastically, "My dear father, you know everything but decide about nothing."

"And you, my son, know nothing but decide about everything," was the quick reply.—Youth's Companion.

Foretold.

The cub reporter was grinding out a marriage notice. Finally he brought it up and laid it on the city editor's desk.

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank announced today the marriage of their daughter to take place next Monday."

"Huh," grunted the editor, "you can't say they announced a marriage yet to take place."

Again the cub jabbed away at his typewriter. And when he brought the notice back this time it read:

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank predicted today the marriage of their daughter."—New York Evening Post.

"Cabinet Circle" Kept Busy.

To belong to that select coterie of Washington society known as the "cabinet circle" would seem to most women to be a bed of roses, but like other roses they are not without their thorns. For instance, the wife of a cabinet member is required by social etiquette to make at least one call on each senatorial and congressional household, which means that she must make half a thousand or more such calls during the season, whether it pleases her or not.

Sounds Plausible.
How did the impression get about that George Washington never told a lie?" asked the inquisitive person.

"Some people credit the cherry tree story for that," said Mr. Dubwaite, "but I suspect George's reputation for veracity is due to the fact that he never said, 'I've had my car six months and it has never been in a repair shop.'

Cut In, All Right.
Redd—What's the matter with your face?

Greene—Oh, I was being shaved today and I started to tell the barber a story.

"I see, and he 'cut in', did he?"

A Conundrum.
Before the subject is abandoned: Why does an American doughboy close his eyes while submitting to the processes of decoration by a French army officer?—Kansas City Star.

Common Enough.
He (turned down)—But, dearest, you are so different from other girls. She—Oh, but you'll find lots of other girls different from other girls.—Tennessee Mugwump.

HONDO TESTIMONY

Home Proof, Here, There and Everywhere.

When you see Doan's Kidney Pills recommended in this paper you most always find the recommender a Hondo resident. It's the same everywhere—in 3,800 towns in the U. S. Fifty thousand people publicly thank Doan's. What other kidney remedy can give this proof of merit, honesty and truth? Home testimony must be true or it could not be published here. Read this Hondo recommendation. Then insist on having Doan's. You will know what you are getting:

B. H. Robinson, carpenter, says: "Several years ago I was troubled with my kidneys. I had to get up about three or four times at night to pass the kidney secretions which were scalding and highly colored. I had dizzy spells and black specks would appear before my eyes. My back ached and I had sharp pains in the region of my kidneys. A friend told me of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got a box. That one box of Doan's regulated my kidneys and my back never aches now."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Robinson had Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.
